

Threshold of Light: A Reflective Coloring & Journaling Set

An Invitation

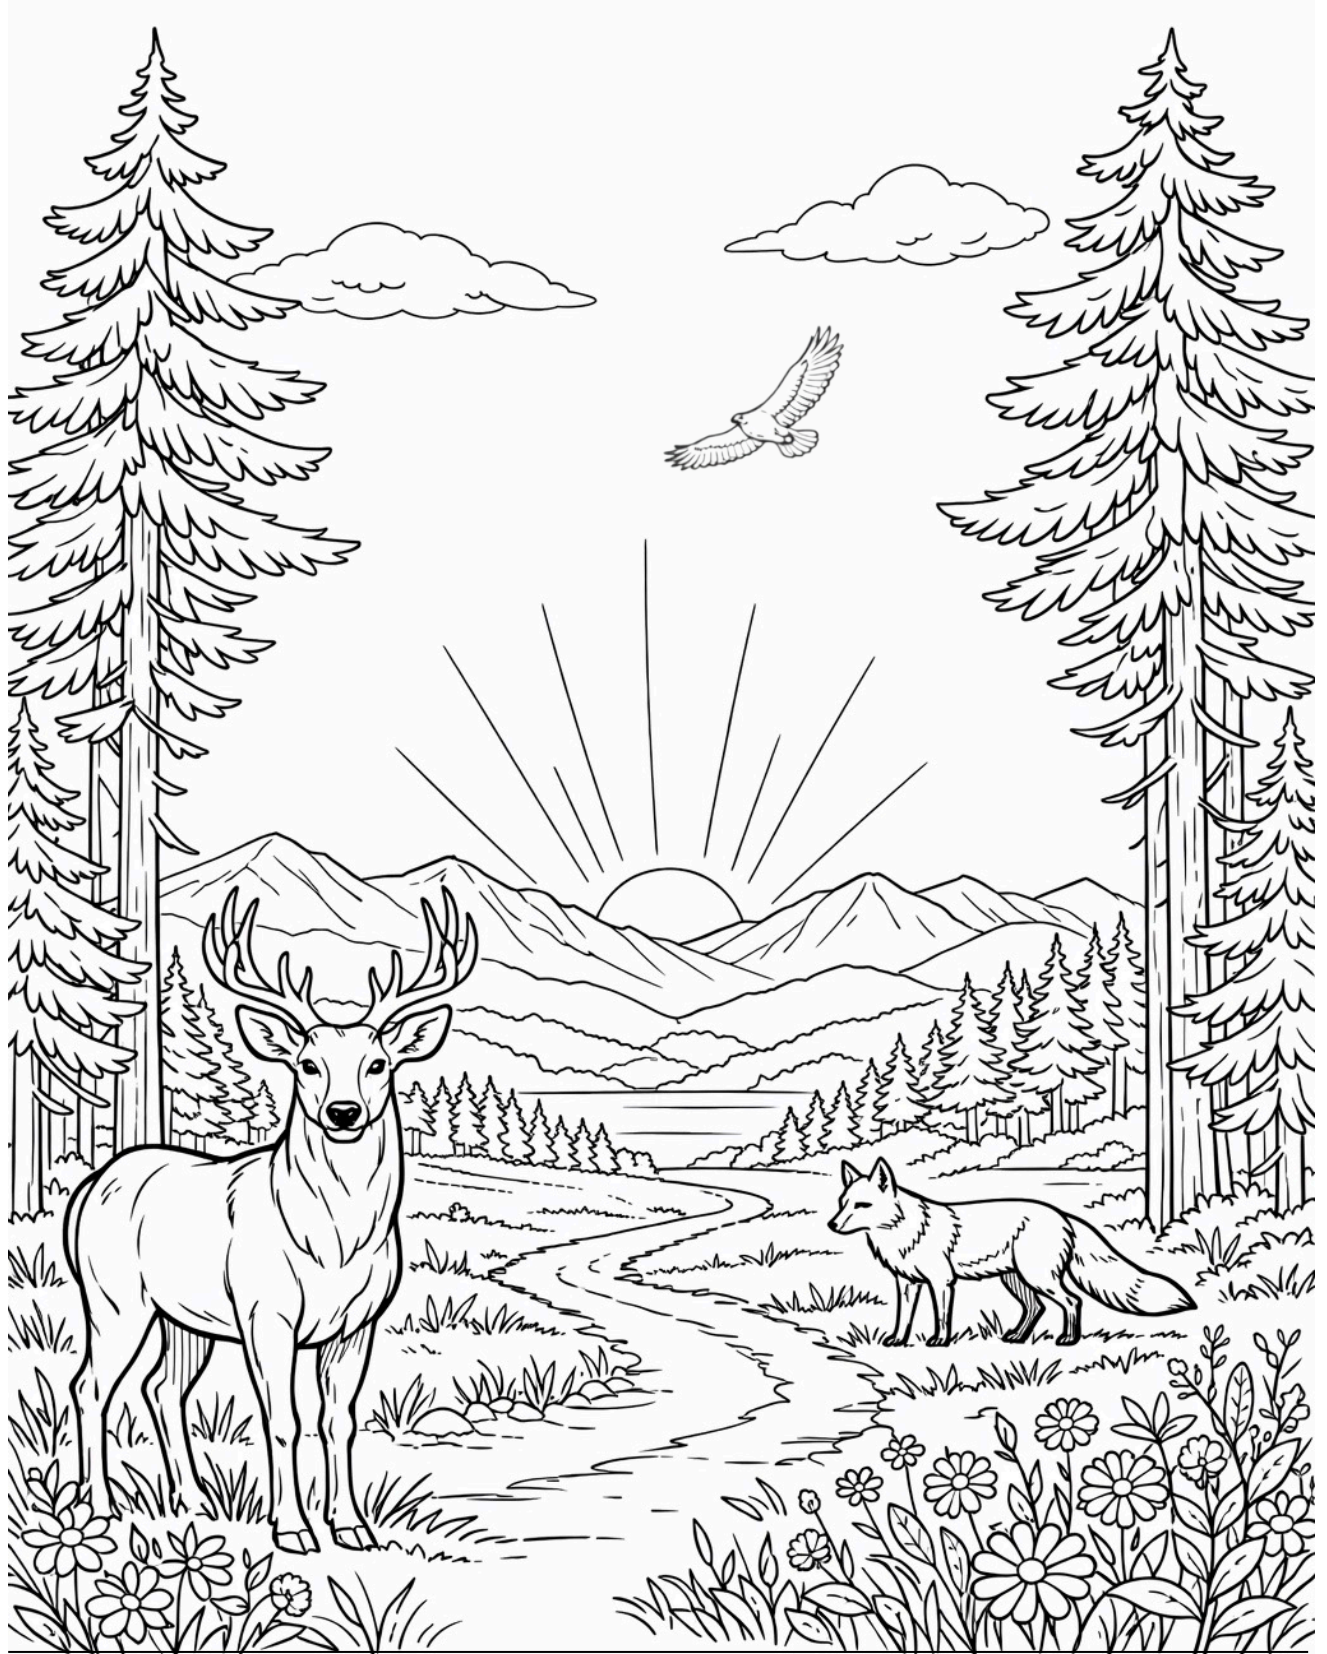

You are standing somewhere between what has been and what is becoming.

These pages are a quiet place to pause there.

Color slowly. Write honestly.

Notice the light.

Stand where the light finds you.

The light was always leading you home.

At the Threshold

Sometimes the light appears as nothing more than a narrow seam at the edge of the sky.
Sometimes we discover we have already stepped into its warmth.
No journey leaves us unchanged—how has this one formed you?

What threshold am I quietly approaching?

What feels uncertain but illuminated?

Where have I found unexpected shelter?

What light have I been given for today?
